

NEE Listed in Forbes Asia's 2007 "Top 200 Companies - Best Under A Billion" List

Phoenix, Arizona March 12, 2008. New Era Electronics, Ltd. (NEE), a leader in volume production of microwave printed circuit boards, was honored by Forbes Asia as one of the top 200 publicly traded companies in Asia, with sales of less than 1 Billion USD, for consistent sales and profit growth in the previous 12 month period.

Forbes Asia annually selects top performing companies from all publicly traded companies in Asia with sales less than 1 billion US Dollars. Those companies that exhibit consistent track records of sustained growth and profitability, as well as knowledgeable management and sound business models are chosen each year for inclusion in the list.

"This is indeed a wonderful recognition of the efforts of the NEE management team", said Jack Daniels, President of NEE International. "NEE has grown consistently and is a solid performer in a tough market space. We expect to see continued success as the company continues its planned evolution into a recognized global leader."
